ANNOUNCING

A Special Lecture Series on

Spanish Art, Music and Literature

During the first two weeks of January, 1961, Professor Walter Starkie, former Director of the British Institute in Madrid, will give a series of seminars and lectures on Spanish art and civilization. You are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Starkie is a noted author and translator. A translation of Don Quixote is among his works. In addition to his activities in Spain, Dr. Starkie was for twenty years a director of the Abbey Theatre in Dublin. He has also served as visiting professor in several American universities.

All sessions will be held in the Museum, according to the schedule on the following page. Seminars will take place in Classroom F and G.

Admission is free. Please register in advance by telephone: GA 1-7340, Department of Education.
